

During the end of quarter or semester rush and impending exams, deadlines for next year's funding opportunities may not be on everyone's mind. However, they have a way of sneaking up on one after the first of the year. This edition of IGCC Enews focuses on some upcoming opportunities for faculty and students offered by IGCC and by other sources.

IGCC's annual awards competition is underway. The recipients of the 2006-07 IGCC dissertation fellowships, internships, and faculty grants will be announced in mid-May 2006. Click on the links for detailed information on how to apply for internships, dissertation fellowships, and IGCC faculty grants. Please note that only UC students and faculty are eligible for these awards.

Additional, non-IGCC funding opportunities that you might want to look into or announce to your students include these NSF-funded programs:

Integrative Graduate Education, Research, and Training (IGERT) Programs are recruiting graduate students for next year. IGERT programs provide a generous stipend ($30,000 per year) and tuition support for students through the National Science Foundation. Their website: www.igert.org has links to more than 100 programs throughout the nation that offer this support. IGCC's Public Policy and Nuclear Threats is a unique, multi-campus IGERT program blending the physical, natural, and social sciences.

Summer research opportunities for undergraduates, including programs in economics, democracy and world politics, environmental studies, sustainability, nuclear science and other disciplines may be found at www.igert.org/reus.asp.

Questions about IGCC's funding opportunities and programs may be sent to the IGCC Campus Programs office. IGCC will be closed from December 23, 2005, through January 2, 2006, reopening for business January 3. Happy holidays to all!

Sincerely,

Estella Juarez
